

BBT Online's Bucketlist – February 2018

Christophe van Campenhout (40), Managing Director/owner Act-Wise and Point-Break

1. I'm a lover of all kinds of music. I started deejaying some years ago and played at some great venues since: Café del Mar, Spirito Martini... This summer we are booked to close a stage at Tomorrowland, which is a dream (and a part of my bucket list) come true. Still on the list musically, is to make a song of our own. Let's wait and see.

2. I love sports and a while ago, I finished a marathon. There is one more I want to participate in and that's the one on the Great Wall of China. I've been to that mythical place before and to run a marathon on it would be unforgettable.

3. I've always been very interested in politics. Someday I would like to give it a shot and try to participate in the local elections. My motto is that there is no place like home. That's why I'm convinced that local politics can really make a difference. Giving back something to the city where you were born and raised in, will hopefully contribute to a better life for your kids and grandchildren.

4. I'm a big ambassador of Madagascar. I've been there a few times and I've never seen a population that is so poor but is always smiling. In the past we've already supported several medical interventions with Act-wise. On my bucket list is to achieve something structural that would really help the local communities. What it could or should be is still unclear. Building a school, supporting a hospital, organizing eco-trips to support the locals... who knows?

5. For many years, I've been thinking of doing something professionally together with my wife. The idea is to open a kind of pop up travel café. She's a great cook. We would sell tailor-made high end trips for couples or smaller groups and present the destinations while my wife cooks in theme. One week it could be Asia, another week it could be Latin America. Why not have some themed entertainment on those nights as well?
